Case No. _____

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

JURY TRIAL DEMAND

INTRODUCTION

1. Plaintiff Duane Peiffer, on behalf of himself individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated (the “Class” as defined below), upon personal knowledge as to the facts pertaining to himself and upon information and belief as to all other matters, and based on the investigation of counsel, bring this class action complaint to recover injunctive relief, treble damages, and other relief as appropriate, based on Defendants’ Bayer CropScience, LP, Bayer CropScience, Inc., Corteva, Inc., Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. Cargill Incorporated, BASF Corporation, Syngenta Corporation, Winfield Solutions, LLC, Univar Solutions, Inc., Federated Co-Operatives Ltd., CHS Inc., Nutrien Ag Solutions Inc., Growmark Inc., Growmark FS, LLC, Simplot AB Retail Sub, Inc., and Tenkoz, Inc. (collectively, “Defendants”) violation of federal and state antitrust laws, unfair competition laws, consumer protection laws, and unjust enrichment laws of the several States.

2. Plaintiff seeks to represent a class consisting of persons and entities who purchased Crop Inputs, for their own use and not for resale, in the United States from at least as early as January 1, 2014 through the present (the “Class Period”) from the Defendants, or through Defendants’ authorized retailers.

NATURE OF ACTION

3. This action arises from an unlawful agreement between Defendants—manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers of Crop Inputs—to artificially increase and fix the prices of seeds and crop protection chemicals such as fungicides, herbicides, and insecticides (“Crop Inputs”) used by farmers.

4. Defendants Bayer CropScience, Inc., Corteva, Inc., Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., Syngenta Corporation, and BASF Corporation (the “Manufacturer Defendants”), together with Defendants Cargill Incorporated, Winfield Solutions, LLC, Univar Solutions, Inc. (the “Wholesaler Defendants”), and Defendants CHS Inc., Nutrien Ag Solutions Inc., Growmark Inc., Simplot AB Retail Sub, Inc., Tenkoz Inc., and Federated Co-Operatives Ltd. (the “Retailer Defendants”), have established a secretive distribution process that keeps Crop Inputs prices inflated at supracompetitive levels and, in furtherance of their conspiracy, denies farmers access to relevant market information, including transparent pricing terms that would allow comparison shopping and better-informed purchasing decisions and information about seed relabeling practices that would enable farmers to know if they are buying newly developed seeds or identical seeds repackaged under a new brand name and sold for a higher price.

5. The cost of Crop Inputs is increasing at a significantly faster rate than profits from farmers' crop yields. The skyrocketing Crop Inputs prices are causing farmers to take on operating debt and often forcing them into bankruptcy, creating a crisis in the agriculture community for American farmers who are critical to the nation's food supply. Neither the cost increases nor the price disparities are attributable to any independent legitimate cause, such as weather or other factors.

6. Beginning at least as early as 2014, new online Crop Inputs sales platforms launched and offered pricing comparison tools to allow farmers to view what other farmers were paying for the same Crop Inputs, increasing price transparency. These online sales platforms, including Farmers Business Network ("FBN") and AgVend Inc., became successful with farmers.

7. Viewing this success, Defendants conspired to boycott these online Crop Inputs sales platforms because of the threat they posed to Defendants' market position, power and price control. For example, the Manufacturer Defendants and Wholesaler Defendants agreed not to sell Crop Inputs to FBN and enforced strict discipline on Retailer Defendants who failed to comply with the boycott. Defendants Syngenta, Bayer, BASF, and Corteva used audits and inspections of their authorized retailers to ensure that online Crop Inputs sales platforms were unable to obtain Crop Inputs from their authorized retailers.

8. Defendants' boycott succeeded. As a result of Defendants' anticompetitive conduct, online Crop Inputs sales platforms, such as FBN and AgVend, were unable to purchase Defendants' Crop Inputs to resell them on their platforms. Because Defendants are the dominant manufactures and sellers of Crop Inputs, this was a devastating blow to these sales platforms and directly harmed farmers by eliminating a lower cost option for purchasing these Crop Inputs.

9. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' anticompetitive conduct, Defendants' have maintained supracompetitive prices for Crop Inputs by denying farmers access to accurate pricing information and have injured farmers by forcing farmers to accept opaque price increases that drastically outweigh any increase in crop yields or market prices.

10. Defendants' anticompetitive conduct is the subject of an ongoing investigation by the Canadian Competition Bureau ("CCB") and the United States Federal Trade Commission ("FTC").

11. A Canadian federal court has found that there is sufficient evidence to require Defendants to also produce records concerning their coordinated anticompetitive conduct in the United States.

12. The FTC is likewise investigating anticompetitive conduct in the Crop Inputs market. At least one defendant, Corteva, has received a subpoena from the FTC directing it to submit documents related to Crop Inputs “in order to determine whether Corteva engaged in unfair methods of competition through anticompetitive conduct.”

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

13. The Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332(d) and 1367 because this is a class action in which the amount in controversy exceeds $5,000,000 and in which some members of the proposed Class are citizens of a state different from some Defendants, and because Plaintiffs’ state law claims form part of the same case or controversy as their federal claims under Article III of the United States Constitution. The Court has further jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1337, and Sections 4 and 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 15(a) and 26. Plaintiffs seek actual and/or compensatory damages, double and treble damages as permitted, pre- and post-judgment interest, costs, and attorneys’ fees for the injury caused by Defendants’ conduct. Plaintiffs also seek injunctive relief against Defendants for violating Section 1 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1).

14. Venue is appropriate in this district because Defendants reside or transact business within this district, and they transact their affairs and carry out interstate trade and commerce, in substantial part, in this district and/or have an agent and/or can be found in this district. Venue is also appropriate within this district under Sections 4, 12, and 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 15(a), and 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b), (c) and (d).

15. This Court has personal jurisdiction over each Defendant because each Defendant: (a) transacted business throughout the United States, including in this District; (b) manufactured, shipped, sold, and/or delivered substantial quantities of Crop Inputs throughout the United States, including this District; (c) had substantial contacts with the United States, including this District; and/or engaged (d) in an antitrust conspiracy that was directed at and had a direct, foreseeable, and intended effect of causing injury to the business or property of persons residing in, located in, or doing business throughout the United States, including this District.

16. Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conduct, as described herein, was within the flow of, was intended to, and did have direct, substantial, and reasonably foreseeable effects on the foreign and interstate commerce of the United States.

TRADE AND COMMERCE

17. The relevant market for this lawsuit is the market for Crop Inputs in the United States, including the manufacturing market for Crop Inputs, the wholesale market for Crop Inputs, and the retail sales market for Crop Inputs.

18. During the Class Period, each Defendant sold Crop Inputs in the United States in a continuous and uninterrupted flow of interstate commerce and foreign commerce, including through and into this judicial District.

19. During the Class Period, Defendants collectively controlled a majority of the market for Crop Inputs in the United States.

20. Defendants' business activities substantially affected interstate trade and commerce in the United States and caused injury in the United States.

PARTIES

Plaintiff

21. Plaintiff Duane Peiffer was a resident at all relevant times of Iowa. During the Class Period and while residing in Iowa, Plaintiff Peiffer purchased one or more Crop Inputs, for his own use and not for resale, that was manufactured or sold by one or more Defendants. Plaintiff Peiffer suffered injury as a result of Defendants' conduct alleged herein.

Manufacturer Defendants

22. Bayer AG is a multinational pharmaceutical, chemical, and agriculture company. It organizes itself into four divisions, each with its own management and corporate organization. Legal entities within each division work together, follow a common strategy, and report up to the same level of management.

23. Defendant Bayer CropScience Inc. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Bayer AG headquartered in St. Louis, Missouri and incorporated in New York that develops, manufactures, and sells Crop Inputs in the United States.

24. Defendant Bayer CropScience LP is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Bayer AG headquartered in Research Triangle Park, North Carolina, and is a crop science company that sells Crop Inputs in the United States.

25. Bayer CropScience Inc. and Bayer CropScience LP both operate as part of the Bayer Group's Crop Science division.

26. Defendant Corteva Inc. is a domestic corporation headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware, that develops, manufactures, and sells Crop Inputs in the United States.

27. Defendant Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., is an Iowa corporation headquartered in Johnston, Iowa, that develops, manufactures, and sells Crop Inputs in the United States. Pioneer is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Corteva. Corteva Incorporated is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware, that develops, manufactures, and sells Crop Inputs in the United States.

28. Defendant BASF Corporation is headquartered in Florham Park, New Jersey, and is the principal U.S.-based operating entity and largest subsidiary of BASF SE, a multinational pharmaceutical, seed, and chemical company. BASF develops, manufactures, and sells Crop Inputs in the United States.

29. Defendant Syngenta Corporation is the main U.S.-based operating subsidiary of Syngenta AG, and is headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware. Syngenta develops, manufactures, and sells Crop Inputs in the United States.

Wholesaler Defendants

30. Defendant Cargill, Inc. is a domestic corporation headquartered in Minnetonka, Minnesota. Cargill owns and operates a wholesaler AgResource Division, which distributes Crop Inputs to Cargill's retail network and to retailers. Cargill's AgResource Division maintains contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta entitling it to purchase and distribute branded Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates.

31. Defendant Winfield Solutions, LLC (“Winfield United”) is a domestic corporation headquartered in Arden Hills, Minnesota and incorporated in Delaware. Winfield United is a Crop Input wholesaler. It maintains contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta authorizing it to purchase and distribute branded Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates. Winfield United is also a major Crop Input retailer that operates as a cooperative owned by its members, which are 650 Crop Input retail businesses operating 2,800 retail locations throughout the United States and parts of Canada.

32. Defendant Univar Solutions, Inc. is a Crop Input wholesaler. Univar maintains contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta authorizing it to purchase and distribute branded Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates. Univar Solutions, Inc. is a domestic corporation headquartered in Illinois and incorporated in Delaware.

Retailer Defendants

33. Defendant CHS Inc. is one of the largest crop input wholesalers in the United States. Like many large wholesalers, it also operates retail networks bearing the CHS brand around the country that sell Crop Inputs from brick-and-mortar stores. CHS Inc. is incorporated and headquartered in the state of Minnesota.

34. CHS and the retail networks it operates maintain contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta authorizing it to purchase and distribute Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates.

35. Defendant Nutrien Ag Solutions, Inc. is both a Crop Input wholesaler and the largest Crop Input retailer in the United States. It sells Crop Inputs to farmers throughout the country and maintains contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta authorizing it to purchase and distribute Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates. Nutrien Ag Solutions, Inc. is incorporated in Delaware and has its principal place of business in Colorado.

36. Defendant GROWMARK, Inc. d/b/a Farm Supply or FS, is a large Crop Input retailer headquartered in Illinois, with brick-and-mortar locations throughout the Midwestern United States. Growmark is incorporated in Delaware. Growmark maintains contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta authorizing it to purchase and distribute Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates.

37. Defendant Tenkoz Inc. is one of the largest Crop Input retailers in the United States. Tenkoz purchases and sells 25% of all crop protection chemicals sold in the United States annually through 550 retail locations and 70 wholesale locations around the country. Tenkoz is incorporated and headquartered in Georgia. Tenkoz maintains contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta authorizing it to purchase and distribute Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates.

38. Defendant Simplot AB Retail Sub, Inc. f/k/a Pinnacle Agriculture Distribution, Inc. is a large Crop Input wholesaler and retailer that operates 135 retail locations across 27 states. Simplot is headquartered and incorporated in Mississippi. Simplot maintains contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta authorizing it to purchase and distribute Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates.

39. Defendant Federated Co-operatives Ltd. is a large Crop Input retailer. It maintains contracts with each of Bayer, Corteva, BASF, and Syngenta authorizing it to purchase and distribute Crop Inputs and entitling it to special rebates. Federated is under investigation by the Canadian Competition Bureau for engaging in coordinated anticompetitive practices designed to exclude competition in the Crop Input market.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

40. Farmers in the United States are being squeezed on both ends, currently experiencing drastically increasing operating expenses while revenue and profits from their crop yields remain stagnant. For example, between 1995 and 2011, the cost of growing soybeans and corn tripled while yields for those same crops rose by only 18.9% and 29.7% respectively.

41. This trend has continued in recent years. One study found that seed, fertilizer, and pesticide costs were 32% of crop revenue between 1990 and 2006, 36% of revenue between 2006 and 2015, but 48% of crop revenue in 2015.¹

42. The rate of cost increases is not attributable to any legitimate cause, as research and development expenditures have decreased over the past several years. Instead, the increases are a result of unjustifiably inflated, supracompetitive prices because of Defendants' anticompetitive group boycott of online sales platforms such as FBN and AgVend.

¹ Schnitkey, G. and S. Sellars, "Growth Rates of Fertilizer, Pesticide, and Seed Costs over Time." farmdoc daily (6):130, Department of Agricultural and Consumer Economics, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, July 12, 2016, <https://farmdocdaily.illinois.edu/2016/07/growth-rates-of-fertilizer-pesticide-seed-costs.html>.

43. Defendants have structured the market for Crop Inputs to be secretive and opaque to obscure pricing data and product information that farmers need to make informed purchasing decisions about Crop Inputs. Because farmers lack the objective information and data needed to evaluate their purchases, farmers are forced to pay higher prices for Crop Inputs than they would in a competitive market. On top of this, farmers are unable to buy Crop Inputs without paying for the unnecessary overhead of brick-and-mortar retailers.

44. The Manufacturer Defendants, who develop and produce between 75% to 90% of the most popular name brand Crop Inputs, guard their product prices from consumers. The Manufacturer Defendants allow their products to be sold only by wholesalers, including the Wholesaler Defendants, retailers owned or operated by the manufacturer, and licensed “authorized retailers” such as the Retailer Defendants. Absent an agreement among the Manufacturer Defendants to boycott online sales platforms like FBN, any single Manufacturer Defendant would have benefited by selling Crop Inputs to FBN as an additional chain of distribution.

45. Through the contracts granting “authorized retailer” licenses, the Manufacturer Defendants require strict confidentiality and prohibit disclosure of the manufacturers’ prices or any incentives, rebates, or commissions offered by the manufacturers to the authorized retailers. This lack of price transparency increases the Manufacturer Defendants’ profits. As a result, Manufacturer Defendants have an incentive to collude to prevent actions (such as the entry of online sales platforms like FBN and AgVend) that threaten to result in greater price transparency.

46. Taking advantage of farmers' lack of access to objective performance data, Manufacturer Defendants take seeds that have long been on the market already and repackage those exact same seeds under a new brand name so that they can be sold at a higher price. This practice causes farmers to overpay for seed that could have been purchased for less from a different brand and/or to have less genetic diversity in seeds across their farms than they anticipated.

47. At the retail level, pricing is similarly opaque and obscured. Wholesalers' contracts with authorized retailers contain strict confidentiality provisions, prohibiting retailers from disclosing the price paid to the wholesaler for Crop Inputs or the price at which retailers sell those exact same Crop Inputs to other farmers. In addition, retailers bundle the sale of Crop Inputs with related services, such as spraying or applying chemicals, which further obscures the individual cost of any Crop Input or bundled service.

48. Starting in 2014, online Crop Inputs sales platforms sought to compete with the opaque and inefficient wholesale and retail systems by offering modernization, increased price transparency, and direct access to Crop Inputs.

49. Initially, online Crop Inputs sales platforms were successful. For example, more than 12,000 farmers signed up for FBN's service that provided objective performance data on Crop Inputs, and 6,000 farmers signed up for FBN's electronic sales platform.

50. Wholesaler and Retailer Defendants recognized the threat posed by these online sales platforms to their market position, power and profit margins. A report published by CoBank, a cooperative partly owned by Crop Inputs retailers and a major lender to grain cooperatives, explained that price transparency would enable farmers to negotiate with Crop Inputs retailers and decrease their profit margins:

Despite relatively low sales, e-commerce companies pose a threat to brick-and-mortar ag retailers in two ways. First, any new competitor will erode sales and margins to some degree and second, e-commerce sites increase transparency for product prices.

These e-commerce sites provide farmers with several sources of product price information that are just clicks away. Farmers can then leverage that information in negotiations with local brick-and-mortar retailers. Traditional ag retailers that bundle products and services together under the product price are losing some customers to e-commerce sites that provide only the product. The e-commerce channel allows cost-sensitive farmers to eliminate service costs like custom application and product warranties.²

51. Defendant CHS, upon learning of FBN's online buying platform launch in 2016, sent a letter to farmers discouraging them from using FBN by falsely claiming that although FBN would be able to offer the same products at lower costs, "FBN just does it with little overhead and without returning any profits to you the farmer, while lining the pockets of investors and big data companies like Google."

52. Despite claims that FBN is not in touch with the Farm Belt, eighty to ninety percent of FBN's employees are located in rural communities in South Dakota, Montana, Alberta, and Australia. They have dozens of facilities around the country, including distribution centers and warehouses, and hundreds of farmer dealers in communities. As FBN co-founder Charles Baron explained to Chief Executive: "So when [competitors] say FBN isn't local, that's absurd. Besides, the most important 'local business' in the farm system is the farmer's farm; it's the core economic engine. And that's where we are."³

53. FBN does not sell farmers' data to other companies, and only shares data if directed to by farmers.⁴

54. CropLife America is a trade association made up of major Crop Inputs manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers, and serves as an ideal vehicle for collusion. Only Manufacturers and distributors of Crop Inputs are eligible for full membership in CropLife America. CropLife America's board of directors is chaired by an executive from one of the Manufacturer Defendants, currently Paul Rea from BASF and previously Suzanne Wasson from Corteva. The current board also includes an executive from Winfield's parent company, Land O'Lakes. For the 2016-19 term, CropLife America's board of directors included executives from Defendants Bayer, Growmark, Tenkoz, and Simplot. The board is exclusively comprised of representatives from large Crop Inputs manufacturers, distributors, and retailers, making it an ideal vehicle for collusion. There is not a single representative for farmers or farmer groups on CropLife America's board of directors, despite CropLife America's expressed mission to "help ensure growers and consumers have the technologies they need to protect crops, communities, and ecosystems from the threat of pests, weeds, and diseases in an environmentally sustainable way." Defendants used CropLife America as an instrument to promote their antagonism to and boycott of these online sales platforms, such as FBN.

55. CropLife America publishes the trade publication CropLife Magazine, which repeated the concerns expressed by CoBank about the threat posed by online Crop Inputs sales platforms to Crop Inputs retailers' business. In February 2016, CropLife stated it was "concerned that the retailer could be disintermediated—i.e., that electronic platforms would 'cut out the middle man'—allowing growers to find product conveniently and at a lower market price," and decried the "devil known as 'price transparency,'" stating that "[g]rowers were not really as interested in buying and selling and storing product as they were in printing price lists off the Internet and waving them in their retailer's faces. Already low margins were about to race to the bottom."

56. CropLife's PACE Advisory Council—a committee composed of the "heads of major ag retailers, market suppliers, equipment makers, and other agricultural analysts"—clearly identified the threat posed by online sales platforms to retailers and wholesalers at its 2017 annual meeting. CropLife's coverage of the event reported that "three letters . . . continually cropped up no matter what the topic of conversation happened to be – FBN (Farmers Business Network). To say that all things related to FBN and its business practices dominated much of the day-long event would be a gross understatement. Several members of the PACE Council described how FBN had negatively affected their business during 2017 by cutting into their already slim margins on various products."

57. When the consolidation and anti-competitive effects of the Crop Inputs market have been called into question, Defendants have regularly coordinated through CropLife America to fight threats to their market power. For example, when Senator Elizabeth Warren targeted Defendants Bayer, Corteva, and Syngenta for recent mergers consolidating the Crop Inputs industry and squeezing out small family farms, CropLife America spoke out on behalf of Defendants to justify the consolidation. Similarly, when the Ninth Circuit concluded that EPA's registrations of Manufacturer Defendants' dicamba pesticide products did not adequately consider the products' anti-competitive effects, CropLife America wrote on behalf of its member companies, including Defendants, in support of the EPA decision.

58. The Agricultural Retailers Association ("ARA") is a non-profit trade association that represents the interests of agricultural retailers and distributors across the United States. Its mission is to "support its members in their quest to maintain a profitable business environment..." The ARA's board of directors is currently chaired by Rod Wells of Growmark and includes board members from Defendants Nutrien, CHS, Winfield, Corteva, Growmark, Bayer, BASF, and Syngenta, inter alia.

59. ARA hosts an annual "Conference & Expo" where more than 650 ag retailers attend, representing 85% of the industry. These conferences provide abundant opportunities for Defendants to coordinate and collude to eliminate price transparency and preclude innovative e-commerce solutions from disrupting the traditional agricultural supply chain. Indeed, a "Roman Coliseum-esque clash" between FBN and an ag retail consultant (Steve Watts of Farrell Growth Group ("FGG")) was the "main event" at the 2017 annual conference, where Mr. Watts announced his belief that it was time for the Crop Inputs retailers to take steps to affirmatively combat the intrusion of e-commerce entities. The ensuing topics of conversation amongst ARA members once FBN left the conference provided ample opportunity to build upon Mr. Watts' explicit calls to action.

60. FGG provides other opportunities for coordination and collusion amongst crop input retailers and wholesalers. Specifically, FGG provides benchmarking information for ag retail companies to “analyze industry trends along with retail performance side by side with industry averages... at an individual company level”⁵ – not unlike benchmarking in the meat industry that launched federal criminal charges and a litany of securities and antitrust lawsuits. FGG recently announced its expansion of this aspect of its business in a partnership with Winfield United Canada. Id.^{##}

61. FGG's benchmarking service is designed to “provide private one on one interpretation and apples vs. apples analysis of each participant's reports in meetings at participant's offices...”⁶ FGG's benchmarking program manager Kelly Farrell claims a “well-run benchmarking program” must consider the following:

- a. Financial statements must be restated to a comparable format. If the company performing the benchmarking simply compiles the financial statements of the group and does not make adjustments to ensure each company's financial statements are stated on a comparable basis, the final product will be of limited value. This approach requires more time and expense but is truly essential if you are looking for meaningful comparisons.

- b. Be selective. You need to be confident in the abilities of the company doing the benchmarking. In addition to knowledge of accounting principles and the benchmarking process, it is also ideal the firm understands your industry.
- c. Confidentiality is essential! You must have confidence your financial statements are being handled with care. Consider having the benchmarking done by a neutral source rather than someone with a vested interest in your business.
- d. Know the companies in your comparison group. There is certainly value in seeing where you stand within a group of all your peers. But if you are looking to be the best, then you will want to compare yourself to the best.
- e. Consider a benchmarking service that includes a peer-to-peer meeting. Discussing with peers how they achieve results and implement intelligence into the business can help you accomplish the next level of performance.⁷

62. FGG studies shared data through its benchmarking service marketed as “MIX,” which stands for “Management Information Excellence.” Having established a partnership with FGG, wholesale crop input seller Winfield United Canada delivers MIX benchmarking insights to retailers through Winfield’s “The Academy” platform. Winfield United Canada, along with Defendant, Winfield Solutions, is owned by Land O’Lakes, Inc.

63. As noted by Peter Carstensen, a law professor and former Justice Department antitrust lawyer in an interview for Bloomberg, detailed benchmarking analyses can “run afoul of antitrust law... when they offer projections or provide data so detailed that no competitor would reasonably share it with another. Getting detailed information is a particularly useful form of collusion... because it allows co-conspirators to make sure they're all following through on the agreement. 'This is one of the ways you do it. You make sure that your co-conspirators have the kind of information that gives them confidence—so they can trust you, that you're not cheating on them,' he says. 'That is what creates stability for a cartel.'”⁸

64. Thus, benchmarking services including, but not limited to, those offered by FGG to ag retailers, supply market participants with private competitor data necessary to coordinate and manipulate pricing and stabilize their anticompetitive scheme.

65. Over the last decade, CropLife America has reported that it has improved cooperation and camaraderie with the Agricultural Retailers Association.

66. The Retailer Defendants and the Wholesaler Defendants knew that retaining their market positions, power and profit margins depended on excluding online sales platforms from the market, so they conspired to eliminate the platforms' product supply. To do so, the Retailer and Wholesaler Defendants induced the Manufacturer Defendants—who rely on the Wholesaler and Retailer Defendants to recommend and sell their products to farmers—to cut off FBN's supply of Crop Inputs. Because the Manufacturer Defendants compete with each other in Crop Inputs product offerings, the Retailer and Wholesaler Defendants have the ability to transfer non-trivial amounts of sales from one manufacturer to another.

⁸ Christopher Leonard, Is the Chicken Industry Rigged?, BLOOMBERG BUSINESSWEEK (Feb. 15, 2017), <https://www.bloomberg.com/news/features/2017-02-15/is-the-chicken-industry-rigged>.

67. In 2016, Defendant Bayer formed an internal task force to study the long-term competitive impact of FBN's online platform.

68. The Manufacturer Defendants agreed with the Wholesaler and Retailer Defendants to cut off FBN's supply, and Defendants initiated a joint boycott of online sales platforms, including FBN. When FBN attempted to purchase Crop Inputs from the Manufacturer and Wholesaler Defendants, they all refused and offered only pretextual excuses for their refusal.

69. For example, when Syngenta's Head of Crop Protection Sales in the United States, Michael Boden, found out that a small number of branded Crop Inputs had been sold on online platforms in violation of Defendants' boycott, he falsely claimed that online platforms would deliver counterfeit products and that, "[w]hen online entities acquire products from sources other than authorized dealers or contracted distributors, you'd better question and be concerned about the quality."

70. Retailers who failed to comply with the group boycott were penalized by the Defendants. For example, in 2018 Syngenta initiated an audit of its authorized retailers after learning that some retailers had sold Crop Inputs product to FBN despite the boycott to identify and punish the retailers who made those sales to FBN.

71. Manufacturer Defendants Bayer, BASF, and Corteva utilize mandatory language in their form contracts with authorized retailers that permit audits of authorized retailers' books and records and on-site inspections at any time. Defendants Bayer, BASF, and Corteva used these contractual provisions to ensure that online sales platforms could not purchase branded Crop Inputs from an authorized retailer.

72. The impact of Defendants' boycott extended past branded products to generic products (i.e., Crop Inputs sold by non-Defendant manufacturers after the Manufacturer Defendants' patents expire). In a 2018 Forbes article, the CEO of a generic chemical products company stated it was wary of supplying FBN because it could anger existing sales channels, and that "[i]n an ideal world, if I could flip the switch and sell to these guys, I would do it in a heartbeat."⁹

73. In 2018, FBN purchased Yorkton Distributors ("Yorkton"), a Canada-based retailer with longstanding supply agreements with Defendants Bayer, Syngenta, BASF, Corteva, and Winfield. Those agreements would have provided FBN with inventory of Crop Inputs to sell to farmers. Indeed, FBN had inquired with manufacturers prior to purchasing Yorkton about these agreements and "no one indicated they'd be disfavorable."¹⁰

74. However, the Wholesaler and Retailer Defendants threatened to retaliate against the Manufacturer Defendants if they honored the agreements. As a result, the Manufacturer Defendants agreed to boycott Yorkton and abruptly canceled their longstanding supply contracts within a few months of FBN's March 2018 acquisition of Yorkton.

75. After FBN's purchase, the Wholesaler and Retailer Defendants put pressure on the Manufacturer Defendants to stop supplying Crop Inputs to Yorkton. On March 31, 2018, four days after FBN announced its purchase of Yorkton, Federated warned the new competitor would upend their business models, writing, "[h]ow our key manufacturing partners decide to engage with this business will be closely observed by us and likely all of our traditional retailing peers across Western Canada." Other market participants have confirmed that this email was also circulated outside of Federated to one or more other industry participants.

76. After FBN purchased Yorkton, in an email dated April 6, 2018, sent to retailers, Defendant Univar stated that it had informed FBN that Univar would cease to conduct business with FBN after July 31, 2018, and stated: "FBN is a data company that wants to collect and aggregate data to eventually sell for a profit to companies that will use the data to make farmers grow us food for nothing. . . . If anyone thinks socialism is going to feed the world just call Russia first and see how that worked out." The Univar email also criticized FBN's model of transparency, stating that "[m]argin compression is not the way to a brighter future and that is all FBN is currently offering." Univar also sent an email notifying its manufacturer suppliers of its decision not to do business with FBN and provided false and misleading talking points to justify its decision on April 6, 2018.

77. Faced with threats of retaliation from wholesalers and retailers, the Manufacturer Defendants agreed to boycott Yorkton and abruptly canceled their longstanding supply contracts within only a few months of its March 2018 acquisition by FBN, causing Yorkton to lose two-thirds of its branded products.¹¹ Bayer (on June 15, 2018), Corteva (on August 27, 2018), and Cargill (on August 3, 2018) informed FBN they would no longer sell Crop Inputs, including seeds and pesticides, or sell only limited quantities to Yorkton. Winfield also advised that it would not supply FBN with Crop Inputs on May 8, 2018.

78. FBN co-founder Charles Baron stated that the response by the Canadian industry after its purchase of Yorkton was similar to the United States' industry response when FBN first launched in 2014, and that "[t]hese actions caused serious harm and really blocked FBN from being able to provide and fulfill a lot of the basic services we provide growers."

79. The Defendants' boycott of FBN was successful and forced FBN to begin developing its own products that it can sell to farmers through its online marketplace.

80. Defendants' boycott also applied to AgVend, and AgVend ultimately shut down its online platform and now establishes web-based storefronts for traditional brick-and-mortar retailers.

81. The original online marketplace for agricultural chemicals, FarmTrade (formerly known as XSAg.com), was decried by CropLife as a "nasty body blow" and a "draconian" mechanism of cutting out retailers altogether. CropLife characterized FarmTrade as "[a] new Website... [which] offered a virtual playing field for the buying and selling of crop protection products online. Anyone in agriculture could list a product and price offer online and sell to any other entity. We, along with many of you, were concerned that the retailer could be disintermediated – a fancier and less draconian way of saying ‘cut out the middle man’ – allowing growers to find product conveniently and at a lower market price.”¹² FarmTrade’s online platform was swiftly combated by crop protection product manufacturers and others in the distribution channel, who “corrected” the “devil” of price transparency, ending the “unnerving and unhappy time.” Id. While FarmTrade continues to operate, like FBN, it is limited to selling mostly chemicals unencumbered by the restrictions imposed on brand-name chemicals and its business has largely “fall[en] by the wayside.”¹³

82. As a result of the Defendants’ coordinated boycott, farmers are and have been deprived of the opportunity to purchase Crop Inputs at transparent, competitive prices from online platforms. Instead, farmers are forced to continue paying artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs purchased from local retailers subject to Defendants’ confidentiality requirements and seed relabeling practices.

83. The Canadian Competition Bureau (“CCB”) is formally investigating Defendants for collusion under Section 10 of the Competition Act Canada (R.S.C., 1985, c. C-34). The CCB inquiry is focused on the conduct of Federated Co-operatives Limited, Cargill Limited, Winfield United Canada ULC, Univar Canada Ltd., BASF Canada Inc., Corteva Inc. and/or its affiliates, and Bayer CropScience Inc. and its wholly-owned subsidiary Monsanto Canada ULC in the seed and crop protection markets, and whether those entities engaged in practices reviewable under Part VIII of the Competition Act Canada.

84. On February 11, 2020, a Canadian federal court granted in full ex parte applications made by Canada's Commissioner of Competition for the production of records against Cargill Limited, Winfield United Canada ULC, Univar Canada Limited, BASF Canada Inc., Bayer CropScience Inc. and its wholly-owned subsidiaries Monsanto Canada ULC and Production Agriscience Canada Company, Pioneer Hi-Bred Canada Company and Dow Agrisciences Canada Inc. relating to those practices. Over Defendants' objection, the Canadian federal court found sufficient evidence to require Defendants to produce records concerning their coordinated anticompetitive conduct in the United States as well.

85. The United States Department of Justice is monitoring the Competition Bureau's investigation and is deciding whether to launch its own investigation into Defendants' concerted refusal to supply electronic platforms with Crop Inputs. The Competition Bureau noted that the Department of Justice's civil investigation into BASF Corporation had uncovered records of its views of the potential competitive significance of Farmers Business Network in the United States. It also noted that merger review documents of Bayer CropScience LP indicate a substantive consideration of FBN in the United States and its potential competitive significance.

86. The FTC is also investigating potential anticompetitive conduct in the Crop Inputs market. At least one defendant, Corteva has received a subpoena from the FTC. On May 26, 2020, the FTC issued a subpoena to Defendant Corteva, directing it to submit documents pertaining to potential anticompetitive conduct with respect to Crop Inputs. Corteva confirmed in a 10-Q filing that the FTC's subpoena required it "to submit documents pertaining to its crop protection products generally, as well as business plans, rebate programs, offers, pricing and marketing materials specifically related to its acetochlor, oxamyl and rimsulfuron and other related products in order to determine whether Corteva engaged in unfair methods of competition through anticompetitive conduct."

ANTITRUST INJURY

87. Defendants' anticompetitive conduct has had the following effects, among others:

- a. Price competition has been restrained or eliminated with respect to Crop Inputs;
- b. The prices of Crop Inputs have been fixed, raised, stabilized, or maintained at artificially inflated levels;
- c. Purchasers of Crop Inputs have been deprived of free and open competition; and
- d. Purchasers of Crop Inputs, including Plaintiffs, paid artificially inflated prices.

88. During and throughout the Class Period, Plaintiff and Class members purchased Crop Inputs in the United States, for their own use and not for resale at supracompetitive prices that were manufactured or sold by Defendants.

89. It is well recognized that in a multi-level chain of distribution, such as exists here, an overcharge is felt throughout the chain of distribution. As noted, antitrust scholar Professor Herbert Hovenkamp stated in his treatise, Federal Antitrust Policy, The Law of Competition and Its Practice 564 (1994):

A monopoly overcharge at the top of a distribution chain generally results in higher prices at every level below. For example, if production of aluminum is monopolized or cartelized, fabricators of aluminum cookware will pay higher prices for aluminum. In most cases they will absorb part of these increased costs themselves and pass part along to cookware wholesalers. The wholesalers will charge higher prices to the retail stores, and the stores will do it once again to retail consumers. Every person at every stage in the chain likely will be poorer as a result of the monopoly price at the top.

Theoretically, one can calculate the percentage of any overcharge that a firm at one distributional level will pass on to those at the next level.

90. The purpose of the Defendants' conspiratorial and unlawful conduct was to fix, raise, stabilize, and/or maintain the price of Crop Inputs.

91. As a direct and proximate result of the alleged violations of antitrust laws, Plaintiff and Class members have sustained injury to their business or property, having paid higher prices for Crop Inputs than they would have paid in the absence of Defendants' illegal contract, combination, or conspiracy, and, as a result, have suffered damages in an amount to be determined by a jury on competent proof. This is an antitrust injury of the type that the antitrust laws were intended to punish and prevent.

CLASS ALLEGATIONS

92. Plaintiff brings this action on behalf of himself, and as a class action under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure Rule 23(a) and (b) on behalf of the following Class:

All persons and entities in the United States and its territories who purchased, for their own use and not for resale, a Crop Input manufactured by a Manufacturer Defendant during the period January 1, 2014 through the date of trial.

93. Specifically excluded from the Class are the following:

- a. Persons or entities that purchased Crop Inputs solely for resale;
- b. Defendants;
- c. The officers, directors, or employees of any Defendant;
- d. Any entity in which any Defendant has a controlling interest; and any affiliate, legal representative, heir or assign of any Defendant;
- e. Any federal, state governmental entities, any judicial officer presiding over this action and the members of his/her immediate family and judicial staff;
- f. Any juror assigned to this action; and
- g. Any co-conspirator identified in this action.

94. Numerosity. Because such information is in the exclusive control of Defendants, Plaintiff does not know the exact number of the Class members. Due to the nature of the trade and commerce involved, Plaintiff believes that there are thousands, if not tens of thousands, of members in the Class and that they are sufficiently numerous and geographically-dispersed throughout the United States so that joinder of all Class members would be impracticable. Class treatment is the superior method for fairly and efficiently adjudicating this controversy.

95. Class Identity. The purported Class is readily identifiable through their purchase orders and other records of their transactions with the Defendants.

96. Typicality. Plaintiff's claims are typical of other class members' claims because they were each injured through Defendants' uniform misconduct and paid supracompetitive prices for Crop Inputs. Accordingly, by proving his own claim, Plaintiff will necessarily prove the other class members' claims.

97. Common Questions Predominate. Common legal and factual questions exist as to all Class members. This is particularly true given the nature of Defendants' unlawful anticompetitive conduct, which was generally applicable to the Class as a whole. These questions include but are not limited to the following:

- a. Whether Defendants engaged in a combination or conspiracy amongst themselves to fix, raise, maintain, and/or stabilize the prices of Crop Inputs in the United States;
- b. The identity of additional participants in the alleged combinations and conspiracy, if any;
- c. The duration of the alleged combination or conspiracy and nature of the acts carried out by Defendants in furtherance of the combination or conspiracy;
- d. Whether the alleged combination or conspiracy violated Section 1 of the Sherman Act;

- e. Whether the alleged combination or conspiracy had the effect of artificially inflating the price of Crop Inputs sold in the United States during the Class Period;
- f. Whether the alleged conspiracy violated state antitrust, unfair competition, and/or consumer protection laws;
- g. Whether the Defendants unjustly enriched themselves to the detriment of the Plaintiffs and Class members, thereby entitling Plaintiffs and Class members to disgorgement of all benefits derived by Defendants;
- h. Whether Defendants formed an enterprise (the “Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise”) within the meaning of RICO;
- i. Whether Defendants engaged in a pattern of racketeering to defraud purchasers of Crop Inputs through blocking electronic platforms, including FBN, from access to Crop Inputs by agreeing not to sell products to them and misrepresenting the reasons for that decision;
- j. Whether Defendants’ conduct caused injury to the Class members;
- k. Whether Defendants took actions to conceal their unlawful conspiracy;
- l. The appropriate injunctive and related equitable relief; and
- m. The appropriate measure and amount of damages to which Plaintiffs and other Class members are entitled.

98. Adequacy. Plaintiff can and will fairly and adequately represent and protect the class members’ interests and he does not have any interests that conflict with or are antagonistic to those of the Class. Moreover, Plaintiff's attorneys are experienced and competent in antitrust and class action litigation.

99. Superiority. Class action treatment is the superior procedural vehicle for the fair and efficient adjudication of the claims asserted because: among other things, such treatment will permit many similarly situated persons to prosecute their common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently and without the unnecessary duplication of evidence, effort and expense that numerous individual actions would engender. The benefits of proceeding through the class mechanism, including providing injured persons or entities with a method for obtaining redress for claims that it might not be practicable to pursue individually, substantially outweigh any difficulties that may arise in management of this class action.

100. The prosecution of separate actions by individual Class members would create the risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants.

101. Defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to the Class, thereby making final injunctive relief appropriate with respect to the Class as a whole.

THE STATUTES OF LIMITATIONS DO NOT BAR PLAINTIFFS' CLAIMS

102. Any applicable statute of limitations for Plaintiff and the Class has been tolled and/or Defendants are equitably estopped from asserting a statute of limitations defense by reason of Defendants' concealment of the conspiracy.

103. Group boycotts and other antitrust violations are inherently self-concealing. Throughout the Class Period, Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in secret conspiracies that did not reveal facts that would put Plaintiff or the Class on inquiry notice that there was a conspiracy to fix prices of Crop Inputs, and effectively and affirmatively concealed their unlawful combination and conspiracy from Plaintiff and the Class.

104. Plaintiff and Class members had neither actual nor constructive knowledge of the facts constituting their claims for relief. Plaintiff and Class members did not discover, nor could have discovered through the exercise of reasonable diligence, the existence of the conspiracy alleged herein until shortly before filing this Complaint, because of the deceptive practices and secrecy employed by Defendants and their co-conspirators to conceal their combination.

105. As discussed above, the market for Crop Inputs is structured to maximize opacity to deny farmers access to pricing data and product information that farmers need to make informed decisions about Crop Inputs purchases. The Defendants use confidentiality provisions in their contracts to restrict disclosure of the prices of Crop Inputs. Defendants also employ seed relabeling and bundling to further prevent farmers, including Plaintiff and the Class, from accessing pricing data and information about the Crop Inputs market.

106. Plaintiff and the Class did not have actual or constructive notice of the conspiracy alleged herein until the Canadian Competition Bureau launched its inquiry and issued subpoenas in February 2020, or until Defendant Corteva's September 2020 disclosure that the FTC had subpoenaed Corteva for documents "in order to determine whether Corteva engaged in unfair methods of competition through anticompetitive conduct." Additionally, and in the alternative, Defendants' anticompetitive acts are continuing violations of the Sherman Act and accordingly each purchase by Plaintiff at supracompetitive prices re-starts the statute of limitations.

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

COUNT I

Conspiracy to Restrain Trade in Violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1

107. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges every allegation in the preceding paragraphs, as though fully set forth herein.

108. Beginning in at least 2014, and continuing thereafter to the present, Defendants, by and through their officers, directors, employees, agents, or other representatives, have explicitly or implicitly colluded to jointly boycott entities that would have introduced price-reducing electronic sales of Crop Inputs in the United States, in order to artificially raise, fix, maintain, and /or stabilize prices in the Crop Inputs market, in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

109. Defendants' actions were not mere independent parallel conduct but took place in the context of multiple facts evincing a conspiracy.

110. First, the market for Crop Inputs is highly concentrated, as Defendants BASF, Corteva, Syngenta, and Bayer AG dominate production in virtually every Crop Input category, and control 85% of the corn seed market, over 75% of the soybean seed market, and over 90% of the cotton seed market. The wholesale market is just as concentrated, with seven wholesalers accounting for 70% of all sales volume.

111. Second, an effective boycott of online sales platforms would not have been feasible without coordination and cooperation between Defendants. The boycott would only work if each Manufacturer Defendant agreed to the plan, otherwise one Manufacturer Defendant breaking with the boycott could have established itself as the primary supplier to online sales platforms and grown its customer base by operating a new distribution channel for Crop Inputs, taking market share from its rival manufacturers.

112. Third, Defendants had a strong motive to conspire to preserve the presently opaque market structure. If online sales platforms succeeded in publicly publishing price lists for Crop Inputs, then the Defendants could no longer keep prices confidential and charge varying prices based on geography or through seed relabeling or bundling. The Wholesaler and Retailer Defendants were therefore motivated to conspire amongst themselves and exert pressure on the Manufacturer Defendants to protect their profits without having to compete on the merits of price and services.

113. Fourth, Defendants formed and maintained their conspiracy using a high degree of inter-firm communication both directly and through wholesalers and retailers, such as through CropLife America's annual board of directors meeting which specifically discussed the threat posed by the entry of online sales platforms. Because no farmer representatives can participate, these meetings provided a forum for collusion.

114. Fifth, Defendants' actions were against their apparent economic self-interest in the absence of an agreement. Providing Crop Inputs to online sales platforms presented a significant business opportunity. Those platforms represented well-financed customers ready to purchase Crop Inputs in bulk quantity from a Manufacturer or Wholesaler Defendant, would simplify the distribution channel and permit Manufacturer Defendants to retain greater profit by eliminating transport costs, rebates, and incentive programs to wholesalers and retailers. The platforms further presented an opportunity for an individual Manufacturer Defendant to increase profits by growing its market share through sales to farmers nationwide, not merely where its authorized retailers were located or enjoyed the largest market share within a specific geographic area.

115. Sixth, Defendants are antitrust recidivists, which is probative of future collusion. See, e.g., In re Nat. Gas Commodity Litig., 337 F. Supp. 2d 498, 500-01 (S.D.N.Y. 2004). Competition experts have noted that past experience participating in cartels enables companies to spot opportunities to profitably engage in anticompetitive conduct while evading detection. Competition Policy International maintains a list of the “fifty-two leading recidivists,” in which Defendants BASF and Bayer are among the top 5 leading antitrust recidivists, and Defendant Corteva is also listed.

116. This conspiracy constitutes a per se violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Antitrust Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

117. Alternatively, this conspiracy constitutes a “quick look” or rule of reason violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Antitrust Act. There is no legitimate business justification for, or procompetitive benefits attributable to, Defendants’ conspiracy and overt acts in furtherance thereof. Any business justification or pro-competitive benefits proffered by Defendants would be pretextual, outweighed by the anticompetitive effects of Defendants’ conduct, and, in any event, could be achieved by means less restrictive than the conspiracy and overt acts alleged herein.

118. Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class have been injured, and will continue to be injured, in their business and property by reason of Defendants’ unlawful combination, contract, conspiracy, and agreement. Plaintiffs and members of the Class have paid more for Crop Inputs than they otherwise would have paid in the absence of Defendants' collusive conduct. This injury is of the type the federal antitrust laws were designed to prevent and flows from that which makes Defendants' conduct unlawful.

119. In formulating and effectuating this conspiracy, Defendants did those things that they combined and conspired to do, including agreeing to boycott online sales platforms, including FBN and AgVend, by refusing to supply Crop Inputs manufactured by Manufacturer Defendants to online sales platforms.

120. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein has had the following effects, among others:

- a. Price competition in the sale of Crop Inputs has been restrained, suppressed, and/or eliminated in the United States;
- b. Prices for Crop Inputs sold by Defendants and all their co-conspirators have been fixed, raised, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high, non-competitive levels throughout the United States; and
- c. Those who purchase Crop Inputs from Defendants and their co-conspirators have been deprived of the benefits of free and open competition.

121. Plaintiffs and Class members have been injured and will continue to be injured by paying more for Crop Inputs manufactured or sold by Defendants than they would have paid and will pay in the absence of the combination or conspiracy as alleged herein.

122. Plaintiffs and Class members are entitled to an injunction against Defendants, preventing and restraining the violations alleged herein.

COUNT II
Violation of the State Antitrust Statutes

123. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges every allegation in the preceding paragraphs, as though fully set forth herein.

124. During the Class Period, Defendants engaged in a continuing contract, combination, or conspiracy with respect to the sale of Crop Inputs in an unreasonable restraint of trade in commerce, in violation of the various state antitrust and consumer protection statutes set forth below.

125. Defendants' acts and combinations in furtherance of the conspiracy have caused unreasonable restraints in the market for Crop Inputs.

126. As a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and other similarly situated Class members who purchased Crop Inputs have been harmed by being forced to pay artificially inflated, supracompetitive prices for Crop Inputs.

127. By engaging in the foregoing conduct, Defendants intentionally and wrongfully engaged in a contract, combination, or conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the following state antitrust laws pleaded below.

128. Arizona. Defendants have entered into an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade in violation of Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 44-1402, et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Arizona by Class members and/or purchases by Arizona residents.

- a. Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Arizona; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Arizona; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Arizona commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. Defendants entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Ariz. Rev. Stat. §§ 44-1401, et seq. Accordingly, members of the Class seek all forms of relief available under Ariz. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 44-1402, et seq.

- a. During the Class Period, Defendants entered into and engaged in a continuing unlawful trust in restraint of the trade and commerce described above in violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16720, each of them, have acted in violation of Section 16720 to fix, raise, stabilize, and maintain prices of Crop Inputs at supracompetitive levels.

- b. The aforesaid violations of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16720, consisted, without limitation, of a continuing unlawful trust and concert of action among the Defendants, the substantial terms of which were to fix, raise, maintain, and stabilize the prices of Crop Inputs.
- c. For the purpose of forming and effectuating the unlawful trust, the Defendants have done those things which they combined and conspired to do, including but not limited to the acts, practices and course of conduct set forth above and the following: (1) fixing, raising, stabilizing, and pegging the price of Crop Inputs.
- d. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein has had, inter alia, the following effects: (1) price competition in the sale of Crop Inputs has been restrained, suppressed, and/or eliminated in the State of California; (2) prices for Crop Inputs sold by Defendants have been fixed, raised, stabilized, and pegged at artificially high, non-competitive levels in the State of California and throughout the United States; and (3) those who purchased Crop Inputs directly or indirectly from Defendants have been deprived of the benefit of free and open competition.
- e. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property in that they paid more for Crop Inputs than they otherwise would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct. As a result of Defendants' violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16720, members of the Class seek treble damages and their cost of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee, pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16720.

130. Connecticut. Defendants have entered into an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade in violation of Conn. Gen. Stat. § 35-26, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Connecticut by Class members and/or purchases by Connecticut residents.

- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Connecticut commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Conn. Gen. Stat. § 35-26, et seq. Accordingly, members of the Class seek all forms of relief available under Conn. Gen. Stat. § 35-24, et seq.

131. Hawaii. Defendants have entered into an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade in violation of Haw. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 480-1, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Hawaii by Class members and/or purchases by Hawaii residents.

- a. Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Hawaii; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Hawaii; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Hawaii commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Haw. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 480-1, et seq. Accordingly, members of the Class seek all forms of relief available under Haw. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 480-1, et seq.

132. Illinois. Defendants have entered into an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade in violation of 740 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 10/1, et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs by Class members and/or purchases by Illinois residents.

- b. This claim is instituted pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17203 and 17204, to obtain restitution from these Defendants for acts, as alleged herein, that violated Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200, commonly known as the Unfair Competition Law.
- c. Defendants' conduct as alleged herein violated Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200. The acts, omissions, misrepresentations, practices and non-disclosures of Defendants, as alleged herein, constituted a common, continuous, and continuing course of conduct of unfair competition by means of unfair, unlawful, and/or fraudulent business acts or practices within the meaning of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17200, et seq., including, but not limited to, the following: (1) the violations of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, as set forth above; (2) the violations of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 16720, et seq., set forth above.

- d. Defendants' acts, omissions, misrepresentations, practices, and non-disclosures, as described above, are otherwise unfair, unconscionable, unlawful or fraudulent, whether or not in violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 16720, et seq., and whether or not concerted or independent acts.

- h. The illegal conduct alleged herein is continuing and there is no indication that Defendants will not continue such activity into the future.
- i. The unlawful and unfair business practices of Defendants, each of them, have caused and continue to cause the members of the Class to pay supracompetitive and artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs. Members of the Class suffered injury in fact and lost money or property as a result of such unfair competition.
- j. The conduct of Defendants as alleged in this Complaint violates Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200.

Plaintiffs and the members of the Class are accordingly entitled to equitable relief including restitution and/or disgorgement of all revenues, earnings, profits, compensation, and benefits that may have been obtained by Defendants as a result of such business practices, pursuant to Cal. 160. District of Columbia. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of D.C. - a. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining, at artificial and/or non-competitive levels, the prices at which Crop Inputs were sold, distributed or obtained in the District of Columbia.
- b. The foregoing conduct constitutes "unlawful trade practices," within the meaning of D.C. Code § 28-3904. Members of the Class were not aware of Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy and were therefore unaware that they were being unfairly and illegally overcharged. There was a gross disparity of bargaining power between the parties with respect to the price charged by Defendants for Crop Inputs. Defendants had the sole power to set that price and members of the Class had no power to negotiate a lower price. Moreover, members of the Class lacked any meaningful choice in purchasing Crop Inputs because they were unaware of the unlawful overcharge and there was no alternative source of supply through which members of the Class could avoid the overcharges. Defendants' conduct with regard to sales of Crop Inputs, including their illegal conspiracy to secretly fix the price of Crop Inputs at supracompetitive levels and overcharge consumers, was substantively unconscionable because it was one-sided and unfairly benefited Defendants at the expense of members of the Class. Defendants took grossly unfair advantage of members of the Class. The suppression of competition that has resulted from Defendants' conspiracy has ultimately resulted in unconscionably higher prices for consumers so that there was a gross disparity between the price paid and the value received for Crop Inputs.

- c. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout the District of Columbia; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout the District of Columbia; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- d. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured and are threatened with further injury. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of D.C. Code §§ 28-3901, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Minnesota commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Minn. Stat. §§ 325F.68, et seq., and Minn. Stat. § 8.31 and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

policy, was unethical, oppressive and unscrupulous, and caused substantial injury to members of the Class.

- d. Defendants concealed, suppressed, and omitted to disclose material facts to members of the Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs. The concealed, suppressed, and omitted facts would have been important to members of the Class as they related to the cost of Crop Inputs they purchased.
- e. Defendants misrepresented the real cause of price increases and/or the absence of price reductions in Crop Inputs by making public statements that were not in accord with the facts.
- f. Defendants' statements and conduct concerning the price of Crop Inputs were deceptive as they had the tendency or capacity to mislead members of the Class to believe that they were purchasing Crop Inputs at prices established by a free and fair market.
- g. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Missouri; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Missouri; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.

- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Mont. Code, §§ 30-14-101, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

171. Nebraska. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of Neb. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 59-1601, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Nebraska by Class members and/or purchases by Nebraska residents.

- a. Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Nebraska; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Nebraska; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Nebraska commerce.

- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Neb. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 59-1601, et seq. and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

172. Nevada. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 598.0903, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Nevada by Class members and/or purchases by Nevada residents.

- a. Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Nevada; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Nevada; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Nevada commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.

- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 598.0903, et seq. and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

173. New Hampshire. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 358-A:1, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in New Hampshire by Class members and/or purchases by New Hampshire residents.

- a. Defendants willingly and knowingly agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining at non-competitive and artificially inflated levels, the prices at which Crop Inputs were sold, distributed or obtained in New Hampshire and took efforts to conceal their agreements from members of the Class.
- b. The aforementioned conduct on the part of Defendants constituted “unconscionable trade practices,” in violation of N.H. Rev. Stat. §§ 358-A:1, et seq., in that such conduct, inter alia, resulted in a gross disparity between the value received by members of the Class and the prices paid by them for Crop Inputs as set forth in N.H. Rev. Stat. §§ 358-A:1, et seq. Members of the Class were not aware of Defendants’ price-fixing conspiracy and were therefore unaware that they were being unfairly and illegally overcharged. There was a gross disparity of bargaining power between the parties with respect to the price charged by Defendants for Crop Inputs. Defendants had the sole power to set that price and members of the Class had no power to negotiate a lower price. Moreover, members of the Class lacked any meaningful choice in purchasing Crop Inputs because they were unaware of the unlawful overcharge and there was no alternative source of supply through which members of the Class could avoid the overcharges. Defendants' conduct with regard to sales of Crop Inputs, including their illegal conspiracy to secretly fix the price of Crop Inputs at supracompetitive levels and overcharge consumers, was substantively unconscionable because it was one-sided and unfairly benefited Defendants at the expense of members of the Class. Defendants took grossly unfair advantage of members of the Class. The suppression of competition that has resulted from Defendants' conspiracy has ultimately resulted in unconscionably higher prices for consumers so that there was a gross disparity between the price paid and the value received for Crop Inputs.

- c. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New Hampshire; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New Hampshire; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- d. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected New Hampshire commerce and consumers.

- e. As a direct and proximate result of the unlawful conduct of Defendants, members of the Class have been injured and are threatened with further injury.
- f. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of N.H. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 358-A:1, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

174. New Mexico. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of N.M. Stat. Ann. §§ 57-12-1, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in New Mexico by Class members and/or purchases by New Mexico residents.

- a. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining at non-competitive and artificially inflated levels, the prices at which Crop Inputs were sold, distributed or obtained in New Mexico and took efforts to conceal their agreements from members of the Class.
- b. The aforementioned conduct on the part of Defendants constituted “unconscionable trade practices,” in violation of N.M. Stat. Ann. § 57-12-3, in that such conduct, inter alia, resulted in a gross disparity between the value received by members of the Class and the prices paid by them for Crop Inputs as set forth in N.M. Stat. Ann. § 57-12-2(E). Members of the Class were not aware of Defendants’ price-fixing conspiracy and were therefore unaware that they were being unfairly and illegally overcharged. There was a gross disparity of bargaining power between the parties with respect to the price charged by Defendants for Crop Inputs. Defendants had the sole power to set that price and members of the Class had no power to negotiate a lower price. Moreover, members of the Class lacked any meaningful choice in purchasing Crop Inputs because they were unaware of the unlawful overcharge and there was no alternative source of supply through which members of the Class could avoid the overcharges. Defendants' conduct with regard to sales of Crop Inputs, including their illegal conspiracy to secretly fix the price of Crop Inputs at supracompetitive levels and overcharge consumers, was substantively unconscionable because it was one-sided and unfairly benefited Defendants at the expense of members of the Class. Defendants took grossly unfair advantage of members of the Class. The suppression of competition that has resulted from Defendants' conspiracy has ultimately resulted in unconscionably higher prices for consumers so that there was a gross disparity between the price paid and the value received for Crop Inputs.

- c. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New Mexico; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New Mexico; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.

- d. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected New Mexico commerce and consumers.
- e. As a direct and proximate result of the unlawful conduct of Defendants, members of the Class have been injured and are threatened with further injury.
- f. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of N.M. Stat. Ann. §§ 57-12-1, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

175. New York. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law §§ 349, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in New York by Class members and/or purchases by New York residents.

- a. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which Crop Inputs were sold, distributed or obtained in New York and took efforts to conceal their agreements from members of the Class.
- b. Defendants made public statements about the prices of Crop Inputs that Defendants knew would be seen by New York consumers; such statements either omitted material information that rendered the statements that they made materially misleading or affirmatively misrepresented the real cause of price increases for Crop Inputs; and Defendants alone possessed material information that was relevant to consumers but failed to provide the information.

- c. Because of Defendants' unlawful trade practices in the State of New York, New York consumer class members who indirectly purchased Crop Inputs were misled to believe that they were paying a fair price for Crop Inputs or the price increases for Crop Inputs were for valid business reasons; and similarly situated consumers were potentially affected by Defendants' conspiracy.
- d. Defendants knew that their unlawful trade practices with respect to pricing Crop Inputs would have an impact on New York consumers and not just the Defendants' direct customers.
- e. Defendants knew that their unlawful trade practices with respect to pricing Crop Inputs would have a broad impact, causing consumer class members who indirectly purchased Crop Inputs to be injured by paying more for Crop Inputs than they would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful trade acts and practices.
- f. The conduct of the Defendants described herein constitutes consumer-oriented deceptive acts or practices within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349, which resulted in consumer injury and broad adverse impact on the public at large, and harmed the public interest of New York State in an honest marketplace in which economic activity is conducted in a competitive manner.

- g. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New York; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New York; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- h. During the Class Period, Defendants marketed, sold, or distributed Crop Inputs in New York, and Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected New York commerce and consumers.
- i. During the Class Period, each of the Defendants named herein, directly, or indirectly and through affiliates they dominated and controlled, manufactured, sold and/or distributed Crop Inputs in New York.
- j. Members of the Class seek all relief available pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349(h).

176. North Carolina. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 75-1.1, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in North Carolina by Class members and/or purchases by North Carolina residents.

- a. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which Crop Inputs were sold, distributed or obtained in North Carolina and took efforts to conceal their agreements from members of the Class.

- b. Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy could not have succeeded absent deceptive conduct by Defendants to cover up their illegal acts. Secrecy was integral to the formation, implementation, and maintenance of Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy. Defendants committed inherently deceptive and self-concealing actions, of which members of the Class could not possibly have been aware. Defendants publicly provided pre-textual and false justifications regarding their price increases. Defendants' public statements concerning the price of Crop Inputs created the illusion of competitive pricing controlled by market forces rather than supracompetitive pricing driven by Defendants' illegal conspiracy. Moreover, Defendants deceptively concealed their unlawful activities by mutually agreeing not to divulge the existence of the conspiracy to outsiders, conducting meetings and conversations in secret, and avoiding the creation of documents which would reveal the antitrust violations.
- c. The conduct of the Defendants described herein constitutes consumer-oriented deceptive acts or practices within the meaning of North Carolina law, which resulted in consumer injury and broad adverse impact on the public at large, and harmed the public interest of North Carolina consumers in an honest marketplace in which economic activity is conducted in a competitive manner.

- d. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout North Carolina; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout North Carolina; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- e. During the Class Period, Defendants marketed, sold, or distributed Crop Inputs in North Carolina, and Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected North Carolina commerce and consumers.
- f. During the Class Period, each of the Defendants named herein, directly, or indirectly and through affiliates they dominated and controlled, manufactured, sold and/or distributed Crop Inputs in North Carolina.
- g. Members of the Class seek actual damages for their injuries caused by these violations in an amount to be determined at trial and are threatened with further injury. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 75-1.1, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Oregon; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Oregon; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Oregon commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Or. Rev. Stat. §§ 646.605, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

178. Rhode Island. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of 6 R.I. Gen. Laws Ann. §§ 6-13.1-1, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Rhode Island by Class members and/or purchases by Rhode Island residents.

- a. Members of this Class purchased Crop Inputs for personal, family, or household purposes.

- b. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce in a market that includes Rhode Island, by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which Crop Inputs were sold, distributed, or obtained in Rhode Island.
- c. Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to members of the Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs. Defendants owed a duty to disclose such facts, and considering the relative lack of sophistication of the average, non-business consumer, Defendants breached that duty by their silence. Defendants misrepresented to all consumers during the Class Period that Defendants' Crop Inputs prices were competitive and fair.
- d. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Rhode Island; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Rhode Island; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- e. As a direct and proximate result of the Defendants' violations of law, members of the Class suffered an ascertainable loss of money or property as a result of Defendants' use or employment of unconscionable and deceptive commercial practices as set forth above. That loss was caused by Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein.

- f. Defendants' deception, including their affirmative misrepresentations and omissions concerning the price of Crop Inputs, likely misled all consumers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing Crop Inputs at prices set by a free and fair market. Defendants' affirmative misrepresentations and omissions constitute information important to members of the Class as they related to the cost of Crop Inputs they purchased.
- g. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of 6 Rhode Island Gen. Laws. Ann. § 6-13.1-1, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on South Carolina commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.

Code Ann. §§ 47-18-101, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Tennessee by Class members and/or purchases by Tennessee residents.

- a. Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Tennessee; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Tennessee; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Tennessee commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.

- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Tenn. Code Ann. §§ 47-18-101, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

182. Utah. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of Utah Code Ann. §§ 13-11-1, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Utah by Class members and/or purchases by Utah residents.

- a. Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Utah; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Utah; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Utah commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Utah Code Ann. §§ 13-11-1, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

183. Virginia. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of Va. Code Ann. §§ 59.1-196, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Virginia by Class members and/or purchases by Virginia residents.

- a. Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Virginia; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Virginia; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Virginia commerce.
- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Va. Code Ann. §§ 59.1-196, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

184. Vermont. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §§ 2453, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in Vermont by Class members and/or purchases by Vermont residents.

- a. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce in a market that includes Vermont by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which Crop Inputs were sold, distributed, or obtained in Vermont.
- b. Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to members of the Class concerning their unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs. Defendants owed a duty to disclose such facts, and considering the relative lack of sophistication of the average, non-business purchaser, Defendants breached that duty by their silence. Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that their Crop Inputs prices were competitive and fair.
- c. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Vermont; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Vermont; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- d. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' violations of law, members of the Class suffered an ascertainable loss of money or property as a result of Defendants' use or employment of unconscionable and deceptive commercial practices as set forth above. That loss was caused by the Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein.

- e. Defendants' deception, including their omissions concerning the price of Crop Inputs, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing Crop Inputs at prices born by a free and fair market. Defendants' misleading conduct and unconscionable activities constitutes unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Vt. Stat. Ann. tit. 9, §§ 2451, et seq., and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

185. West Virginia. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of W. Va. Code §§ 46A-6-101, *et seq. with respect to purchases of Crop Inputs in West Virginia by Class members and/or purchases by West Virginia residents.

- a. Defendants' combination or conspiracy had the following effects: (1) Crop Inputs price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout West Virginia; (2) Crop Inputs prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout West Virginia; (3) members of the Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) members of the Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for Crop Inputs.
- b. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on West Virginia commerce.

- c. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, members of the Class have been injured in their business and property and are threatened with further injury.
- d. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of W. Va. Code §§ 46A-6-101, et seq. and, accordingly, members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute.

186. Plaintiffs and members of the Class have been injured in their business and property by reason of Defendants' anticompetitive, unfair, unconscionable, and/or deceptive conduct. Their injury consists of paying higher prices for Crop Inputs than they would have paid in the absence of these violations. This injury is of the type the state consumer protection statutes were designed to prevent and directly results from Defendants' unlawful conduct.

187. On behalf of themselves and the Class, Plaintiffs seek all appropriate relief provided for under the foregoing statutes.

COUNT IV

Unjust Enrichment

188. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges every allegation in the preceding paragraphs, as though fully set forth herein.

189. As a result of their unlawful conduct described above, Defendants have and will continue to be unjustly enriched. Defendants have been unjustly enriched by the receipt of, at a minimum, unlawfully inflated prices and unlawful profits on sales of Crop Inputs.

190. Defendants have benefited from their unlawful acts and it would be inequitable under unjust enrichment principles under the laws of each state in the United States for Defendants to be permitted to retain any of the ill-gotten gains resulting from the overpayments made by Plaintiff or the Class members for Crop Inputs.

191. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' conduct described above, Defendants have and will continue to be unjustly enriched by the receipt of unlawfully inflated prices and unlawful profits from Defendants' sales of Crop Inputs.

COUNT V
Violations of The Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act under 18
U.S.C. § 1962(c), (d)

192. Plaintiff incorporates and realleges every allegation in the preceding paragraphs, as though fully set forth herein.

193. Plaintiff brings Count V on behalf of the Class against all Defendants.

194. At all relevant times, Defendants have been "persons" under 18 U.S.C. § 1961(3).

195. Section 1962(c) makes it "unlawful for any person employed by or associated with any enterprise engaged in, or the activities of which affect, interstate or foreign commerce, to conduct or participate, directly or indirectly, in the conduct of such enterprise's affairs through a pattern of racketeering activity." 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c).

196. Section 1962(d) makes it unlawful for "any person to conspire to violate", among other provisions, Section 1962(c). See 18 U.S.C. § 1962(d).

197. From at least 2016, to the present, Defendants have worked to manipulate the Crop Input market by blocking FBN's access to Crop Inputs by working together as an association-in-fact enterprise. These entities all participated directly or indirectly in a scheme to block electronic platforms from access to Crop Inputs by agreeing not to sell products to these platforms, including FBN, and misrepresenting the reasons for that decision (the “Crop Input Market Manipulation Enterprise”). Through the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise, Defendants obtained illegal profits.

198. As a direct and proximate result of their fraudulent scheme and common course of conduct, Defendants have illegally extracted billions of dollars from Plaintiffs and the Class. As explained in detail below, Defendants’ years-long misconduct violated RICO Sections § 1962(c) and (d).

199. At all relevant times, Defendants operated as an association-in-fact enterprise, which was formed for the purpose of engaging in a fraudulent scheme to block electronic platforms from access to Crop Inputs by agreeing not to sell products to these platforms, including FBN, and misrepresenting the reasons for that decision.

200. Each Defendant operated or managed the affairs of an enterprise, the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise, through a pattern of racketeering activity in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c).

A. Essential Purpose of the Enterprise Was the Scheme to Defraud.

201. At all relevant times, the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise: (a) had an existence separate and distinct from each of the Defendants; (b) was separate and distinct from the pattern of racketeering in which Defendants engaged; and (c) was an ongoing and continuing organization consisting of legal entities, including the Manufacturer Defendants, the Wholesaler Defendants, the Retailer Defendants, and other entities and individuals associated for the common purpose of blocking electronic platforms, including FBN, from access to Crop Inputs by agreeing not to sell products to them and misrepresenting the reasons for that decision.

202. Defendants dominate all levels of the Crop Inputs market. Through a coordinated enterprise in which they all participated, either directly or indirectly, Defendants have established a secretive supply-chain process using authorized licenses, commissions, rebates, and incentives to keep Crop Input prices inflated at supra-competitive levels and deny farmers access to relevant market information. This opaque Crop Input market prevents farmers from comparison shopping, making better-informed purchasing decisions, and discovering deceptive seed relabeling practices. Defendants also seek to control and capitalize on farmers' data through the development of farm management platforms.

203. Defendants had a strong motive to conspire to preserve their opaque market structure. If electronic platforms publicly published price lists for specific Crop Inputs, then the Manufacturer, Wholesaler, and Retailer Defendants could no longer keep prices confidential and charge inflated prices for identical Crop Inputs and/or maintain price opacity through seed relabeling and bundling.

204. The Retailer Defendants and the Wholesaler Defendants knew that to retain their market positions and maintain their profit margins, they had to exclude electronic platforms from the market, so they conspired to cut off the platforms' product supply. Because the Manufacturer Defendants rely on the Retailer and Wholesaler Defendants to recommend and sell the Manufacturer Defendants' products to farmers, the Retailer and Wholesaler Defendants had to convince the Manufacturer Defendants to agree not to supply FBN and other platforms to make the boycott effective.

205. Each member of the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise shared in the financial windfall generated by the enterprise, and each member shared in the common purpose of forcing farmers to purchase Crop Inputs at supra-competitive prices.

206. FBN threatened the Defendants' dominant market position and control over Crop Inputs pricing. As a result, rather than compete fairly with FBN, Defendants conspired to block its access to Crop Inputs by engaging in a group boycott. For instance, the Manufacturer, Wholesaler, and Retailer Defendants repeatedly blocked FBN's access to Crop Inputs by agreeing among themselves not to sell products to FBN.

207. Given the structure of the Crop Inputs industry with the necessary relationships between manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers, an effective boycott of electronic platforms would not have been feasible absent coordination and cooperation among Defendants. Absent an agreement among themselves, Defendants' actions were against their independent economic self-interests.

208. The Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise engaged in, and its activities affected interstate and foreign commerce, because it involved commercial activities across state and national boundaries, such as the marketing, promotion, advertisement and sale or lease of the Crop Inputs throughout the country, and the receipt of monies from the sale of the same.

209. Within the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise, there was a common communication network by which co-conspirators shared information using the interstate mails and wires on a regular basis.

210. Each member of the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise had a systematic linkage to the others through corporate ties, contractual relationships, financial ties, and continuing coordination of activities.

211. Through the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise, Defendants functioned as a continuing unit with the common purpose of furthering the illegal scheme and their common purposes of blocking electronic platforms, including FBN, from accessing Crop Inputs by agreeing not to sell products to these platforms and misrepresenting the reasons for that decision.

212. The ordinary business of Defendants is to engage in the manufacture, distribution, and sale of Crop Inputs. It is not part of their routine business to engage in acts of mail and wire fraud to block farmer access to alternative market participants and misrepresent the reasons for these decisions.

213. While Defendants participated in, and are members of, the enterprise, they have a separate existence from the enterprise, including distinct legal statuses, different offices and roles, bank accounts, officers, directors, employees, individual personhood, reporting requirements, and financial statements.

214. Defendants directed and controlled the ongoing organization necessary to implement the scheme at meetings and through communications of which Plaintiffs cannot fully know at present, because such information lies in the exclusive control of Defendants.

215. This enterprise has continued for over four years (since at least as early as 2016), and the enterprise (and pattern of racketeering) are ongoing and open-ended.

B. The Participation of Defendants in the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise.

216. Upon information and belief, Defendants are, and have been, in regular and constant communication regarding the Crop Inputs market.

217. Upon information and belief, Defendants were all deeply involved in the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise.

218. The Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise depended upon Defendants working together in shared concert to block new electronic platforms from accessing Crop Inputs and thus trapping farmers into higher-priced purchases in the inefficient and opaque Crop Inputs market. None of the Defendants could have individually pulled off this scheme to defraud. Given the structure of the Crop Inputs industry with the necessary relationships between the manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers, an effective boycott of new electronic platforms would not have been feasible or possible absent coordination and cooperation among Defendants. The scheme was strengthened by the fact that these major industry players used their prestige and logos to mislead others into believing their misrepresentations about FBN's business model and their decision not to sell to FBN were legitimate.

219. Defendants have multiple networks for inter-firm communications to form and maintain the Crop Market Manipulation Enterprise through trade association participation and to use their trade industry associations to push their false narratives about FBN and Defendants' refusal to sell to FBN.

220. One major coordination hub is CropLife America, a trade association that comprises major Crop Inputs manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers. CropLife's Board of Directors is chaired by an executive from one of the Manufacturer Defendants—currently BASF's Paul Rea and previously Corteva's Suzanne Wasson. For the 2016 to 2019 term, CropLife's Board of Directors also included executives from Defendants Bayer, Growmark, Tenkoz, and Simplot. The Board of Directors exclusively comprises representatives from large Crop Inputs manufacturers, distributors, and retailers, making it an ideal vehicle for collusion.

221. The CEO of CropLife America, Chris Novak, has also echoed and amplified the fearmongering of its Defendant members. To the press, Novak has stated that it is “beginning to hear stories and we’re looking for data on counterfeit ag products sold online. It’s a major concern that speaks to farmer loss, quality control and lost sales for the industry.” However, Novak does not substantiate the “stories” of any concerns with FBN.

222. The Agricultural Retailers Association (“ARA”) hosts an annual in-person industry conference every year, which is attended by representatives from all major Crop Inputs retailers, as well as representatives from each Defendant. These industry conferences provide ample opportunity for Defendants to not only agree among themselves how to block electronic platforms from emerging, but also to coordinate with the other levels of the distribution chain. In fact, as noted above, the threat posed by FBN was the primary discussion topic at the PACE Advisory Council's 2017 annual meeting.

223. The coordination through the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise to block sales to FBN by Defendants was also not the first time Defendants had worked together to stop similar competition. Prior to 2016, manufacturers and the distribution channel partners recognized the threat from transparent, electronic platforms and worked together to block the threat when XSAg.com entered the market. Similarly, in 2018, Defendants continued to work together through the Crop Input Market Manipulation Enterprise to counter an additional threat: FBN's entrance into the Canadian market. While many Defendants had initially agreed to continue their supply of FBN's Canadian retailer, a coordinated campaign through the Crop Input Market Manipulation Enterprise kicked in including through communications over the wires. The boycott was swift and covered the vast majority of the Crop Input market.

224. Given the structure of the Crop Inputs industry with the necessary relationships between manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers, an effective boycott of electronic platforms would not have been feasible absent actual coordination and cooperation among Defendants. The boycott would only work if each Manufacturer Defendant agreed to the plan; otherwise, the Manufacturer Defendant that broke from the boycott could have established itself as the primary supplier to electronic platforms and grown its customer base by operating a new distribution channel for its Crop Inputs, taking market share from its rival manufacturers.

225. Defendants are in the regular business of making, distributing, and selling Crop Inputs. It is not routine for them to engage in fraudulent activities or to engage in a pattern of mail and wire fraud.

226. Defendants have worked together on the scheme to defraud in shared concert since at least 2016, when FBN attempted to enter the Crop Input market.

C. The Pattern of Racketeering: Mail Fraud and Wire Fraud

227. To carry out the scheme to defraud, Defendants knowingly participated, directly or indirectly, and conducted the affairs of the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. §§ 1961(1), 1961(5) and 1962(c), and which employed the use of the mail and wire facilities, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1341 (mail fraud) and § 1343 (wire fraud).

228. The predicate acts of racketeering (18 U.S.C. § 1961(1)) engaged in by Defendants include, but are not limited to:

- a. Mail Fraud: Defendants violated 18 U.S.C. § 1341 by engaging in an unlawful scheme to defraud involving false pretenses, misrepresentations, promises, half-truths, and omissions. In furtherance of this scheme, Defendants used the mails:
 - Defendants shipped, or caused to ship, via interstate mail Crop Inputs to wholesalers, retailers, and farmer, and others that were distributed and purchased based on Defendants' market manipulation to exclude FBN.
 - Defendants used the mails in furtherance of their scheme to defraud and, in fact, could not have accomplished their scheme to defraud without using the mails to ship Crop Inputs nationwide to victims in all fifty states.
- b. Wire Fraud: Defendants violated 18 U.S.C. § 1343 by engaging in an unlawful scheme to defraud involving false pretenses, misrepresentations, promises, half-truths, and omissions. In furtherance of this scheme, Defendants used the interstate wires.

- Defendants communicated with farmers via wire to provide false pretenses, misrepresentations, promises, half-truths, omissions, and lulling statements about FBN and their illicit boycott. For example:
 - Upon learning about FBN's 2016 entry into the U.S. market as an electronic Crop Inputs sales platform, CHS officials distributed a letter to farmers attempting to discourage them from using FBN, falsely claiming that although an electronic platform like FBN would be able to offer the same products at cheaper prices, "FBN just does it with little overhead and without returning any profits to you the farmer, while lining the pockets of investors and big data companies like Google."¹⁴
 - In fall 2018, after Syngenta's Head of Crop Protection Sales in the U.S. learned that a small number of branded Crop Inputs had been sold on electronic platforms in violation of Defendants' boycott, he falsely claimed in an interview presumably conducted over the wires that electronic platforms would deliver counterfeit products. He further stated that "[w]hen online entities acquire products from sources other than authorized dealers or contracted distributors, you'd better question and be concerned about the quality."¹⁵
 - In its attempts to pressure all sellers to participate in the boycott of FBN, Syngenta's Head of U.S. Crop Protection Sales falsely justified its audit initiative by stating in a letter sent to vendors in March 2018: "We have concerns about product integrity, stewardship, and regulatory compliance" and that products sold on FBN could be unreliable.¹⁶
 - On March 31, 2018, Defendant Federated sent an email message over the wires pressuring its manufacturing partners not to partner with FBN: "How our key manufacturing partners decide to engage with this business will be closely observed by us and likely all of our traditional retailing peers across Western Canada." Other market participants have confirmed that this email was also circulated outside of Federated to one or more other industry participants.

- In announcing its decision not to deal with FBN in Canada, Univar, using the wires, distributed talking points on April 6, 2018, about its decision and urged team members to share these talking points with retailers: “FBN is a data company that wants to collect and aggregate data to eventually sell for a profit to companies that will use the data to make farmers grow us food for nothing . . . If anyone thinks socialism is going to feed the world[,] just call Russia first and see how that worked out.” Univar further criticized FBN’s business model of bringing market transparency to farmers, declaring that “[m]argin compression is not the way to a brighter future and that is all FBN is currently offering.” These talking points were also shared over the wires with its manufacturer suppliers on the same day.
- Defendants used the interstate wires to receive and process payments from their illicit sales of the Crop Inputs based on a scheme to defraud to block electronic platforms from access to Crop Inputs by agreeing not to sell products to these platforms, including FBN, and misrepresenting the reasons for that decision.

229. In doing so, Defendants have deceived and cheated farmers out of billions of dollars for the last several years.

230. This pattern of racketeering is open-ended and remains ongoing. Only by pursuing this lawsuit and financially punishing Defendants will the pattern of racketeering at issue here finally cease.

231. The predicate acts are all related because they were all done in furtherance of the same overall goal and common purpose of the RICO enterprise: to force farmers to pay supra-competitive prices for Crop Inputs by blocking FBN (and dissuading others) from participating in the Crop Input market and bringing increased transparency to farmers.

D. Causation and Damages

232. Because it forces farmers to remain in an inefficient and opaque Crop Inputs market, the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise directly caused farmers to pay more for Crop Inputs than they would have but for Defendants' wrongful conduct. There is a direct and straight line from the scheme to defraud to the damages suffered.

233. There are no intervening steps or causes that could have prevented or altered or even interfered with the Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise.

234. All purchasers of the Crop Inputs purchased Crop Inputs in reasonable reliance upon the representations that the marketplace was functioning efficiently and in accordance with the law.

235. The exact purchase history of consumers, at the level of the individual consumer, is available from Retailer Defendants, other retailers, and other relevant data sources, so there is no real risk that the class will include any class members who were not harmed by Crop Inputs Market Manipulation Enterprise. The class will include those who purchased the Crop Inputs during the time of the market manipulation.

236. By reason of and because of the conduct of Defendants, Plaintiffs and Class members have been injured in their property through higher costs, less choice, and/or fewer innovative products or services. Plaintiffs and Class Members are forced to pay more for Crop Inputs than they otherwise would have, have lost choices, and have lost the opportunity to purchase new and innovative products and services.

237. The violations of 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c) and (d) by Defendants have directly and proximately caused injuries and damages to Plaintiffs and Class members, and Plaintiffs and Class members are entitled to bring this action for three times their actual damages, as well as costs and reasonable attorneys' fees pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 1964(a) and (c).
